DICTIONARY WITH THE PUNTI AND MANDARIN PRONUNCIATION. An Anglo-Chinese Dictionary, published at Daily Press Office, Hongkong.

For comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the now words which the Chinese have of late years beencompelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extenso. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size payable within three months at any Post (Iffice Office): Contents and Value of Packages are of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of in the United Kin dom, or at Constantinople, space, achieving a clearness not previously can be obtained at Hongkong or at any British attained, and dispensing with those vast margins | Post Office in China (except Holhow and Tienand vacant spaces which have heretofore charactisin) at the following prices, which include terized Chinese publications. To illustrate the vast scope of the work the following facts are submitted for consideration:— Chalmers' Vocabulary contains about 16,000 Chinese characters, and Medhurst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilstthis work contains more than 50,000 English. words, and unwards of 600,000 Chinese charac- even sums not exceeding £5 applied for at Hongters.
